To Members of the Syfff Community in Asia

I would like to share with you information about a wonderful opportunity to spend nearly two months in Japan as a fellow, from September 8 to October 31, 2014. The "Asia Leadership Fellow Program 2014" is designed to promote networking among Asian public intellectuals and to provide forums for dialogue with other fellows and Japanese counterparts.

For details, please refer to the announcement by the Secretariat of the Asia Leadership Fellow Program, pasted below. The Secretariat welcomes your application (deadline is January 3, 2014) and would also appreciate your passing this information on to all eligible and interested friends and acquaintances.

If you have any questions, please contact the ALFP Secretariat directly, rather than the Tokyo Foundation.

With best regards,

Takashi Suzuki
 Director for Leadership Development
 The Tokyo Foundation

Dear Friends and Colleagues;

We would like to thank you for your warm support toward the Asia Leadership Fellow Program (ALFP) over the years.

Today, we are pleased to announce a call for applications for the Asia Leadership Fellow Program 2014 and would be most grateful if you could spread the word about this. The deadline for application is January 3, 2014.

The objectives, eligibility, selection procedures and other administrative details are fully described in the URL below. All the application materials are also available online:

 MORE ABOUT ALFP ***

Initiated in 1996, the ALFP is intended to contribute to the networking of Asian public intellectuals from various backgrounds, who share humanistic concerns about our fluid world and are dedicated to seeking out new paradigms through interaction and dialogue in depth. This program will provide the opportunity for the fellows to reside in Japan for two months from September 8 through October 31, 2014, in order to interact with their fellow colleagues as well as with their Japanese counterparts.

"The Future of Asia, the World and Humanity after Development and Growth" is the theme set for the 2014 program. The Fellows will engage collaboratively in various activities, including seminars with resource persons, field trip, and a public symposium. They will also be given a chance to do their own activities based on their own interests.

If you have any questions regarding the program, please let us know.
Thank you in advance for your attention.

Sincerely yours,
ALFP Secretariat

WHAT IS ALFP?

In 1996, the International House of Japan and the Japan Foundation jointly launched the Asia Leadership Fellow Program (ALFP). The ALFP seeks to create a close, personal and professional network of public intellectuals in Asia, deeply rooted in and committed to civil society beyond their own cultural, disciplinary and geopolitical backgrounds.

During the two-month program in Japan, the Fellows from diverse backgrounds reside in the center of Tokyo and actively engage in group discussions and dialogue with their counterparts in Japan from different fields and sectors.

Since the initiation of the program, over 100 Fellows from 17 Asian countries and regions from diverse cultural and professional backgrounds have participated to date.

The ALFP believes that the fellows' critical voices against the status quo and proposals for alternative solutions will lead to the development of new norms and value-orientations for the future of the region and beyond.

WHY ALFP?

More than 60 percent of the world's population lives in the region called Asia, where different social institutions, economic systems, cultures, religions and ethnicities co-exist. This rich diversity includes a wide variety of problems. There is violence against human life and dignity in the form of socio-economic disparity, environmental deterioration, and racial, religious and cultural conflicts.

While globalization, along with social media, apparently offers the potential for broader unity across borders, there are also many stereotypes about and within Asia that often result in mistrust, intolerance, ignorance and indifference. States and markets alone are not capable of coping with the region's challenges.

The challenges are many but should be and can be articulated, understood and addressed from the perspective of civil society. Indeed, the ALFP believes that the key to breakthrough lies in the solidarity of concerned people who recognize and respect each other's cultural backgrounds and value systems while playing a leading role in initiating effective action. It is imperative to enhance intellectual dialogue and exchange among public intellectuals who share the same concerns about the future of the globe, and feel the need to build an equitable civil society in the region while reaching out to other parts of the world.

New arenas exist for Asian public intellectuals to collaborate on and address long-standing and emerging concerns in the region from a holistic standpoint. The ALFP seeks to be a catalytic forum for public intellectuals, and to extend its reach to the larger public sphere through old and new media.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR ALFP?

- The ALFP is open to citizens of Northeast-, Southeast- and South-Asian countries and regions, aged 35 to 59, inclusive.
- Applicants must have a good command of English to engage in deep and substantial discussions in English.
- Applicants need to have a solid background in their own professions and have access to a wide audience in their country or region through publications, teaching, media, performance, etc. to disseminate their thoughts and findings.

There is no prescribed set of professions for an ALFP fellow; the professions of past fellows include, but are not limited to, academia, journalism, business, national and local politics, education, administration, the arts, publications, and NGO and non-profit activities.

GENERAL THEME FOR 2014

The Future of Asia, the World and Humanity after Development and Growth

PROGRAM PERIOD

September 8 to October 31, 2014 (Individual activities period from October 11 to October 19).
You may extend your stay for one week after the program.

NUMBER OF FELLOWS

Maximum of seven fellows selected from Northeast-, Southeast- and South-Asian countries and regions

SELECTION POLICY

ALFP seeks public intellectuals who are deeply rooted in and committed to civil society beyond their own cultural, disciplinary and geopolitical backgrounds. More particularly, we are looking for those individuals who:

- Have demonstrated a certain degree of achievement in their profession and have demonstrated outstanding leadership ability.
- Are willing to go beyond their discipline or field of specialty and to engage in constructive discussions with other fellows who have diverse specialties and cultural backgrounds.
- Are able to accept different ways of thinking, think tolerantly and alternatively about cultural values, and are willing to develop new social norms and value-orientations in order to build an equitable civil society in the region.
- Have concrete means of dissemination/communication to bring about social and/or intellectual impact in one's community/country/region/world, in order to solve the problems facing global society today, from the broader perspective for the common public good and humanitarian causes.
- Have a good command of English that will enable one to communicate and engage in deep/substantial discussions in English.

ALFP is NOT intended for:

- ◆ "Leadership Development" training for students and young professionals
- ◆ Japanese Studies
- ◆ Supporting individual research projects of any kind

FELLOWSHIP TERMS & CONDITIONS

The program will provide each fellow with the following:

1. Round-trip airfare between Tokyo and the city where the fellow is based
2. A daily allowance (to cover accommodations, meals and other incidentals)
3. Medical insurance during the Program in Japan
4. Other costs related to group activities set by the Program

Fellows must participate in all the program's activities and make necessary preparations and later dissemination efforts as set by the Program.

Fellows are required to spend the entire program period at the International House of Japan in Tokyo except for the individual activities period. Families cannot be accommodated for the duration of the Program.

Fellows are required to submit a final report, reflecting their experience, for publication in the ALFP Program Report.

NOTE:

Although some activities are pre-set for fellows, the Program is still flexible, leaving enough time and space for fellows in designing additional activities after their spending some time together as a group in Japan.

DOCUMENTS TO BE SUBMITTED

Applicants should submit the following documents by post to the ALFP Secretariat by Friday, January 3, 2014.

1. Designated Application Form (pp. 6-7), completed, dated and signed.
